Fall Virtual Meeting Recap

Thank you to all presenters and Network members that were able to join our Starzl Network Fall Virtual Meeting. We covered topics of Network Wins, Network Updates & Decisions, Network Assessment, and Current & Upcoming Network Trials. We had representation from 16 Starzl Network centers and Network members from all different roles.

If you were unable to join us, you can view all of the session recordings on Basecamp!

Upcoming AASLD Presentations

There are a lot of great topics that will be covered at the upcoming Liver Meeting in Washington D.C. We hope you get to attend these sessions of interest from Starzl Network members:

- “Left Ventricular Mass Index, a key metric for cirrhotic cardiomyopathy, is a better predictor of morbidity and mortality than PELD in pediatric cirrhosis”
 - Dalia Bashir, (Texas Children’s Hospital) will be presenting the abstract on November 9th at 11:45AM in Plenary session
- Community Conversation: “Patient Engagement in Pediatric Liver Disease: Experiences from A-LiNK, PFIC.org, and the Starzl Network”
 - Emily Perito, Jim Squires, and Maddie Flickinger will be presenting on November 9th at 3:45PM
- “Basiliximab dosing in pediatric liver transplantation (LT) recipients: Starzl Network Experience”
 - Or Steg will be presenting this poster on November 10th at 1:00PM

Improvement Science Committee

The Improvement Science Committee is looking for new projects! If you or someone at your center has an idea for a quality improvement project, please reach out to Mihaela Damian. Additionally, if you are a quality improvement specialist or are interested in participating on the improvement science committee, please reach out to Mihaela for more information!

Recent Starzl Network Presentations

The Starzl Network has been well represented at recent scientific meetings. Dr. Josh Gossett presented the Waitlist M&M work at both the World Transplant Congress and the International Pediatric Transplant Association meetings. Additionally, Dr. Renana Yemini gave an oral abstract presentation of the work of the intra-operative flow project from the Surgeons Working Group at the International Pediatric Transplant Association meeting. Congratulations, all on this great work!
